Best teaching tool ever !! By Richard the second (PCMAC user) after eight years of lessons lessons Trying to play the piano to which I was practically given up on. I was not exercising more than half an hour, two or three times a week and I didn't like it. He was ready to sell the old floor when I shown Tomplay, a couple of weeks ago. Oh! Being able to play using the orchestral accompanying function of the app makes a huge difference. You really feel as if you were playing music when you use that function. And, as far as a teaching tool is concerned, it cannot be beaten. I love being able to slow down the time #1. #2 use the function of loop to reproduce 1, 2, 3 or more measures more and more times until I receive that part of the Down Pat piece. #3 appreciates the suggestive fingering On each piece. n. 4 The ability to make my notations and highlights on the music, then print it. And the huge musical library is very impressive. Thanks to the Tomplay app, I went from practicing sessions of half an hour a couple of times a week to literally do hours a day. Excellent learning tool. Of Franchezzo (PCMAC user) well designed app and very effective tool for music practice. My main interest is the classic plan and the main composers are well represented. Most of the scores have two different audio tracks of real (not Midi) tools to choose from. I like that you can choose between the score completely noted with your fingers and the score without annotation. One thing I want is a larger range of time adjustment. The app only allows you to slow down to 75% of the original time and some of the times are quite fast. I understand that slowing down the time too compromises the quality of audio reproduction, but when it exercises me, it is not important for me how much to be able to play in a clean way and maintain a good pace. Also, I have to change mine otnuigar otnuigar onnah am enoizacnimoc alled otnemillaf led asuac alled orucis onos noN .erotappulivs ollad atsopsis anucla ovevecir non e itnedecerp itsiuqca ieim i eranitsirpir id odarg ni otats erness non id otatnemal onos im iuc ni enoisnecer to me and the problem is solved.
